Block Schedule

- ★ More aligned to the current distance learning model
 - ★ Allows more time for in-depth lessons
 - ★ More attention given to the needs of Zoomers, allowing teachers the autonomy to customize lessons for all three cohorts
 - ★ More equitable opportunities to address the need for interventions and extensions
 - ★ Dedicated time daily for English Learners and Special Education students
 - ★ Dedicated Office Hours and intervention in the afternoon
- Zoom fatigue of teachers/ students (actually a challenge for both models)
 - In-person experience (both seeing peers and teachers) is less frequent with only three classes per-day
 - Longer classes require an adjusted lesson plan structure
